Description	Justification
The project engages key property owners, community stakeholders and government officials to develop a framework master plan for a targeted revitalization area. The project is expected to mitigate future traffic congestion at intersection along the highway by providing for multi-modal transportation options. Studies conducted in phases one and two provide the groundwork for this comprehensive effort. This project can serve as a real world test case for the regional effort known as the US 40 Carbon Neutral Corridor Pilot Project.	Studies completed in phase two of the project indicate that congestion will increase over time, but that "significantly higher levels of growth can occur in the plan area with little or no additional negative impact on forecast congested conditions." According to the study, "if growth is planned to provide a mix of land uses and builds a more complete network of connected streets, the area is well suited for growth."
